rub, shorts could be shorter

UNUSUALLY these trousers have two sets of leg zips so you have a choice of three leg lengths – full length, below the knee and knee length. Given the options I'd like to see shorter shorts however. These are very long, the zips running across my knee caps where I can feel them on my skin. The wind-resistant fabric is quite substantial and should prove durable. It has an insect-repellent and anti-bacterial treatment, which is useful though I haven't been able to test the former as it's too early for midges! The cut is roomy and freedom of movement good. The pockets are excellent. The cargo ones are not the usual baggy pouches but lie flat yet have masses of room without the contents pressing on the legs. Overall these are fine trousers let down by the position of the upper leg zips. The price is high but they should be durable.
